SHIRLEY BONNEVILLE HIGHLIGHTS

Shirley Bonneville of Etiwanda developed her interest in art during art courses in high school. Later, she won a scholarship to the Chicago Art Institute but gave that up in favor of marriage and family.

She studied oil painting with Effel Deeter, outdoor drawing and watercolor with Milford Zornes, and later studied watercolor with Bob Eucker in Monrovia. She stopped painting watercolor when her husband retired, but soon went to sculpture classes with Carolyn Hemenway, to which she devoted her time for fifteen years - and she has continued sculpting on her own as well as with sculptor Cheryl Cooper.

Quite a few years ago, Shirley attended a silk painting workshop with Joy Fink. She has excelled in this medium, and continues to paint and sell many silk scarves and silk paintings.

Her favorite artistic expressions are in watercolor and sculpture, and she is especially fond of watercolor florals and sculptures of animals.

Shirley has won many first place and best of show ribbons throughout the years in watercolor, oil, and acrylic.
